POLICY STATEMENT

Family and/or couple therapy is considered medically appropriate when used to treat the identified patient's mental illness or substance use disorder. This includes:

- I. Individual session(s) with a family member(s) of the identified patient to aid in the treatment of the patient.
- II. Goal specific, time limited family therapy when the identified patient's mental illness or substance use disorder is severely disrupting interpersonal family dynamics.
- III. Multiple-family psychoeducation groups for families of patients with schizophrenia (e.g., McFarlane Group), or Maudsley Group for adolescents with an eating disorder diagnosis.
- IV. The identified patient must have a diagnosis of mental illness or substance use disorder as specified in the Diagnostic and Statistical Manual of Mental Disorders, 5th edition (DSM-5).

Refer to Corporate Medical Policy #3.01.08 regarding Group Therapy for Mental Health and Substance Use Disorders.

POLICY GUIDELINES

Concurrent individual treatment of more than the identified patient in a family, by the same practitioner, will not be covered without supporting clinical documentation demonstrating that the benefits of concurrent treatment outweigh the risks generally associated with concurrent treatment.

Exception: Individuals with an Axis I DSM-5 diagnosis who are seen by a psychiatrist for psychotropic medication(s).

DESCRIPTION

Family and couples therapy is a service provided for individuals seeking treatment with a licensed mental health care practitioner, when this is the most effective and efficient treatment for the identified patient's mental illness. Family and couple treatment is generally conducted with the patient(s) and family present during the same session, although there are occasions where it is beneficial to the patient for the family members or the significant others to meet individually with the mental health practitioner to address specific issues. Examples of situations when individual session(s) with a family member(s) are beneficial include:

- I. treatment planning,
- II. safety planning in case of suicidal or self-harming behavior, and
- III. person-centered diagnostic education for family.
